GARDEN

Yard work doesn't have to be painful

Finally, a knee saver for gardeners that's kind to the body. Just released by Yard Butler, the Garden Kneeler bids bye-bye to bending and so long to stooping.

A unique, ergonomic design enables the Garden Kneeler to convert from a cushioned surface ideal for those dealing with arthritis and other ailments into a comfortable bench that lets you sit at the proper height for taking on various gardening and household chores. To segue from a kneeling to sitting position, simply turn the Garden Kneeler over.

In the kneeler position, the extended, sturdy handles provide leverage to make getting up and down easier. The 8-pound kneeler folds flat for storage and easy portability, and holds up to 250 pounds. The Garden Kneeler features all-steel and 3/4-inch foam construction, and comes with a lifetime guarantee. It is available at independent lawn and garden centers for around $48, or you can check it and other Yard Butler products out at www.YardButlerStore.com.
